ABOUT THE SPECIAL SESSION

Healthcare is being transformed by the integration of Artificial Intelligence (AI), the Internet of Things (IoT), advanced sensing, machine learning, and emerging digital technologies. These innovations enable intelligent healthcare systems for continuous patient monitoring, early disease detection, clinical decision support, personalized medicine, and remote healthcare delivery.

The special session "Artificial Intelligence, Internet of Things and Emerging Technologies for Smart Healthcare (AIoT-SH)" invites original research contributions on intelligent, connected, secure, and sustainable healthcare technologies. It aims to promote interdisciplinary collaboration among researchers, academicians, students, healthcare professionals, and industry experts.

TOPICS OF INTEREST

- Artificial Intelligence and Machine Learning for Smart Healthcare
- Generative AI, Explainable AI, and Clinical Decision Support
- AI-Based Disease Prediction, Risk Assessment, and Early Diagnosis
- Medical Image Processing and Biomedical Signal Analysis
- IoT-Enabled Healthcare Monitoring and Internet of Medical Things (IoMT)
- Wearable Sensors, Remote Patient Monitoring, and Telemedicine
- Edge AI, TinyML, Cloud Computing, and 5G/6G Healthcare Applications
- Federated Learning and Privacy-Preserving Healthcare Analytics
- Cybersecurity and Blockchain for Healthcare Data Management
- Digital Twins and Personalized Healthcare
- Multimodal AI, Sensor Fusion, and Intelligent Medical Robotics
- Smart Hospitals, Point-of-Care Diagnostics, and Sustainable Healthcare Technologies
- AIoT Architectures for Rural and Remote Healthcare
